

University of Victoria

ANTHROPOLOGY COLLOQUIUM

Law, Animals, and Culture: Exploring the Intersections through Critically-Oriented and Interdisciplinary Research

Professor Maneesha Deckha

Professor and Lansdowne Chair & Director of Graduate Studies
Faculty of Law, University of Victoria

Monday, November 5th 2018

11:30 am – 12:50 pm

Cornett Building: A129

Since starting at UVic in 2002, Professor Deckha has worked to bring the fields of feminist postcolonial theory, critical race theory, animal ethics, and animal law into conversation with each other. She will present an overview of the themes and topics that she has addressed in this regard, introducing some of the major debates in feminism, critical multiculturalism, decolonization, and animal ethics and advocacy along the way, with which her work has engaged.

EVERYONE WELCOME.

www.uvic.ca/socialsciences/anthropology/undergraduate/colloquium/index.php