- This 80,000-word report was the product of extensive field work and interviewing I did in Montevideo, Amsterdam, Berlin, Paris, Durban, New Delhi, Bangkok, Manila, Tokyo and San Francisco, during my 2012-2013 sabbatical leave. I completed it in draft form in September 2013, and then elicited comments from the 91 participants with whom I conducted in-depth interviews, After receiving extensive feedback from many of the 91 participants, I reshaped and enlarged the manuscript into the book, Expose, Oppose, Propose.
- “Expose, Oppose, Propose: The Canadian Centre for Policy Alternatives.” June, 2012.
 This 12,000 word report was presented at the Board of Directors meeting of the Canadian Centre for Policy Alternatives in Ottawa. Written with David Huxtable as second author, it provides an in-depth look at the CCPA as Canada’s leading site for developing alternative policy. The report, part of my 2011-2015 SSHRC project, combined research with community engagement.

Ten key research outputs

1. William K. Carroll. 2010. The Making of a Transnational Capitalist Class. London: Zed Books.

Path-breaking study of global corporate power. Listed by Choice (reference publication for academic librarians) as one of its top 25 books, of approximately 7000 reviewed in 2011.

2. William K. Carroll. 2021. Regime of Obstruction: How Corporate Power Blocks Energy Democracy. Edmonton: AU Press, edited, 512 pp.

The main academic output from the 2015-2023 Corporate Mapping Project, a partnership of university- and community-based researchers, which I co-directed with Shannon Daub.

3. William K. Carroll. 2016. Expose, Oppose, Propose: Alternative Policy Groups and the Struggle for Global Justice. London: Zed Books and Halifax: Fernwood Publishing, 236 pp.

An in-depth study of 16 transnational alternative policy groups, using ethnographic, social-network, case-study and critical discourse analysis to explore how these groups' cognitive praxis contributes to counter-hegemonic formation across the global north and south.

4. William K. Carroll. 2010 (first edition 2004). Corporate Power in a Globalizing World. Toronto: Oxford University Press, 282 pp.

Won the 2006 Canadian Sociological Association (CSA) John Porter Award, for the most important book published in 2004. Analyzes Canada's corporate elite, 1976-1996. Revised edition 2010.

5. William K. Carroll. 1986. Corporate Power and Canadian Capitalism. Vancouver: UBC Press, 282 pp.

Won the CSA John Porter Award in 1988. An empirical study of Canada's corporate power structure (1946-1976), which advanced an account grounded in critical political economy.

6. Robert Hackett and William K. Carroll. 2006. Remaking Media. London: Routledge, 235 pp.

Collaboration explored the formation of a germinal social movement to democratize public communication in the advanced capitalist world. Based on extensive fieldwork in Canada, US and UK.

7. William K. Carroll and Kanchan Sarker. 2016. A World to Win: Contemporary Social Movements and Counter-Hegemony. Winnipeg: ARP Books, 413 pp.

An integrated collection of studies reading contemporary movements as potential carriers of counter-hegemony and drawing on political economy, political ecology, feminist theory and postcolonial thought in concert with social movement theory.

8. William K. Carroll. 1997 (first edition 1992). Organizing Dissent. Toronto: Garamond Press, 333 pp.

This collection brought a critical, neo-Gramscian approach to the sociology of social movements. Widely read particularly within Canadian sociology in the 1990s and early 2000s.

9. William K. Carroll and Robert A. Hackett. 2006. "Democratic Media Activism through the lens of Social Movement Theory." Media, Culture & Society 28 (1): 83-104.

Widely cited theorization of the forms of activism that have emerged in recent years around the democratic deficit in public communication, using Gramsci, Bourdieu and Habermas.

10. William K. Carroll. 2013. "Discipline, Field, Nexus: Re-visioning Sociology." Canadian Review of Sociology 50: 1-26.

Based on a 2012 plenary address to the Canadian Sociological Association (after winning the CSA Outstanding Contributions Award). Proceeding from an historical and philosophical analysis, this article offered an alternative vision for sociology, based in critical realism. This article won the 2015 Canadian Review of Sociology's Best Article Award. It has sparked an extensive and lively debate in the pages of Canada's sociology journals.
